4 BED BUG EXTERMINATION SECRETS UNCOVERED

An exclusive guide by SayByeBugs.
“My husband is a prominent travel agent, but much to my chagrin we picked up bed bugs while staying in some of the finest hotels. I learned of your product through a young man who was traveling with a tour group. After suffering with unsightly bites and an infestation at home, I was eventually able to rid myself and my household of this distressing problem by using your product. Thank you!”

“We were skeptical but desperate to find a way to get rid of the bed bugs. So far, I have no new bites and I spray the bedding and surrounding area every few days. No smell or cleaning up after foggers so I have been very pleased.”

“We have had very good results with your product. We have not been entirely overcome with the problem. Fortunately it was very light. However, other products we have tried never stopped them completely. We have seen none after a second spraying with your product so far. We will be looking forward to the next shipment as we want to keep it on hand.”

“Very helpful thank you! We have had these pests for almost a year trying everything we could. Not fun when you’re busy and pregnant and want to sleep. Unfortunately had to bring my brand new baby home to a buggy apartment... we moved two days ago and got rid of the couch and bed. Washed and dried every piece of clothing and then sprayed the clothes with this spray. I haven’t seen a single bug or had any bites. And I’m really glad this spray is safe for my daughter and my pet.”

Thousands of people have used SayByeBugs to exterminate bed bugs from their homes, now you too can use this tested & proven to work process.

Each of the steps by itself can help you get rid of bed bugs, but only by performing them all you can forever eradicate them from your home!

These steps have been tested and are in our experience a sure fire way to get rid of bed bugs.
The discovery and realization that you have bed bugs lurking in your home isn’t a pleasant one, but fortunately there is something you can do right now to address the problem. The Say Bye Bugs Exterminator, a spray that destroys bed bugs on contact, is the first step in eliminating your bed bug infestation.

Bed Bug Extermination Spray

The Say Bye Bugs Exterminator is a spray that destroys bed bugs on contact. The spray works very quickly and effectively, so use it in your home as soon as you find a bed bug infestation.

What makes the Say Bye Bugs Exterminator so effective?

It is a water-based spray that contains an active ingredient that instantly destroys any bed bug it comes in contact with by attacking their exoskeleton. It’s also safe, both for pets and people, and is not toxic to any living species other than bed bugs and other insect pests such as fleas.

The Exterminator spray also has a special formula that will disturb the mating cycle of bed bugs, making it even more effective in eradicating a bed bug infestation.

Bed bugs generally prefer to live in tight spaces that are dark and hidden. Look for cracks and crevices in your furniture and your room. Inspect every inch of your room for any possible bed bug hiding spots. If you’re able to find all their hiding spots, you’ll succeed at destroying every last bed bug.

Bed Bug hiding spots

Many people make the mistake of simply spraying all over the room without focusing on bed bug hiding spots. Common bed bug hiding spots include mattress seams, baseboards, and other small, dark spaces.

Don’t forget to spray below drawers, on drawer slides, behind cabinets, behind window molding, behind mirrors and picture frames, and behind nightstands and side tables. You only need to spray a light mist on these areas to immediately eliminate the bed bugs lurking there.
Give special attention to the joints of wooden furniture, especially your bed, and the folds and seams of your mattress. The Say Bye Bugs Exterminator spray is water-based and therefore does not leave behind any stains, so go ahead and use it on any spot that you suspect might be harboring bed bugs. Other areas to inspect and spray include box springs, headboards, pillows, carpets, rugs, registers, and ductwork.

However, don’t merely spray all over the carpet and floor, thinking that you’ll catch every bed bug by doing so. The more you focus on possible hiding spots, the better the results will be. Read the label on the Say Bye Bugs spray to ensure that you’re using them as directed.

Keep spraying for at least 10 days

Since bed bugs can continue to lay eggs even after they’re dead, you need to use your extermination spray again daily for up to 10 days. This is due to the incubation period of bed bug eggs, that lasts about 6-10 days.

Bed bugs need to feed at least five times before they are able to reproduce, so if you’re able to eradicate them before their fifth feeding, there should not be any more eggs. Continue doing the spray treatment for at least a few weeks after your first treatment to ensure that all bed bugs and their eggs have been eliminated.

After you have initially sprayed all affected areas you can now proceed to laundering your linens.

The minute you found a bed bug infestation, the first thing you probably did was to remove your sheets. That’s the smart thing to do, but don’t stop there. Toss these sheets into the washing machine and use a specially formulated laundry detergent to completely eliminate bed bugs from your home. Bed Bug exterminator laundry treatment

It offers a concentrated dose of our formula to eliminate bed bugs on linens, clothes and other washable items.

It is completely scent free, our detergents only task is to destroy any and all bed bugs, their eggs and their offspring.

It is extremely effective. Our laundry detergent is used by thousands of people like you.

Ensure that all bed bugs are removed from your sheets with Say Bye Bugs laundry treatment, which contains safe yet powerful ingredients that target bed bugs, lice, and other common pests.

If you have bed bugs in your bed, you might have them in your clothes, too. Since bed bugs like to hide under drawers and drawer slides, they might have gotten on your clothes that are stored in your drawers. Use the Say Bye Bugs laundry treatment with your clothes to destroy every bed bug and every bed bug egg that have contaminated your sheets and clothes.

Where to start?

The first thing you’ll need to do is to immediately put all of your bedding, including sheets, pillow covers, comforter, duvet, and the bed skirt, into plastic garbage bags. Put your clothes that were in your drawers in plastic garbage bags as well. Seal them up to prevent any bed bugs from escaping to other parts of your home.

Bring your garbage bags to your washing machine and be very careful in transferring the bedding and clothes into the machine. Put the garbage bags, one at a time, directly in front of the machine and unload the bedding and clothes right into it.
Wash your sheets and clothes

Wash the bedding and clothes using the Say Bye Bugs laundry detergent with the HOT WATER setting. When the bedding and clothes are washed, put them in the dryer on the HIGH HEAT setting. Don’t overstuff the dryer; only fill the dryer half way to allow every item of clothing and bedding to receive adequate heat exposure. Leave the clothes in the dryer for at least 45 minutes. The heat, combined with the specially formulated laundry detergent, will eliminate every bed bug and bed bug egg. If you have clothes that can’t stand the high temperatures you simply add the detergent to your normal washing cycle and it will still do its job. Please be aware that high heat may harm certain fabrics. After washing and drying, put your sheets and clothes into new plastic bags and tie them up again to seal out air access. Even though the laundry detergent and hot water and heat should have eradicated all bed bugs and eggs, you want to make sure that there is no possibility of re-exposure. Store them in another room that is not infested with bed bugs.

If you need to regularly wear your clothes that were from your dresser, you can hold them in airtight plastic bins in your room. Clothes that were hanging in your clothes don’t usually need to be treated or sealed, unless your room has a serious bed bug infestation.

It is very important to adequately clean and treat your sheets and clothes once you’ve found a bed bug infestation to avoid spreading it. Infected sheets that have not been completely cleaned can cause a new bed bug infestation on your mattress. The Say Bye Bugs laundry treatment will prevent these unfavorable situations.

A mattress encasement is an airtight cover that you need to use on your mattress and box springs once you’ve found a bed bug infestation. The mattress encasement will do three things:

Mattress encasement

No matter how closely you’ve sprayed and vacuumed your mattress and box springs, there are likely to be more bed bugs and eggs hiding.

An effective mattress encasement will seal all the bed bugs inside the mattress encasement, preventing them from biting you.

You’ll be able to sleep on your mattress the first night after you’ve discovered a bed bug infestation with the help of the Say Bye Bugs mattress encasement.

First, remove all bedding and put them in sealed garbage bags. This will hold all the bed bugs that were on your bedding and keep them inside. The bed bugs will be sealed up inside the garbage bags and unable to escape. Bring the garbage bags to the washing machine and carefully put in your bedding directly into the machine. You don’t want the bed bugs to escape as you transfer the bedding to the washing machine. Wash your sheets with the Say Bye Bugs laundry detergent following the instructions on page 5.

Box spring encasement

Thoroughly vacuum your mattress and box springs to remove all visible evidence of bed bugs and bed bug eggs. Use a powerful vacuum, like the Atrix Backpack Vacuum that has the ability to collect and store bed bugs and their eggs in a sealed HEPA filter. (described on page 9)

Use the Say Bye Bugs Exterminator spray on your mattress and box springs, especially around the seams. Try removing the dust cover on the box spring, so you’ll be able to spray inside. (page 2)

Allow your mattress and box springs to dry after you’ve used the exterminator spray. At least 30 minutes of drying time should be sufficient, but check for dryness before you put on the mattress encasement.
Once the mattress and box springs are free of bed bugs and dry, cover them with the Say Bye Bugs Luxurious Mattress Encasement. They come in various sizes and will fit both a mattress and a box spring. You'll need a mattress encasement for each mattress and box spring that has been infected with bed bugs.

The mattress encasements will zip up and completely seal mattresses and box springs. They will prevent bed bugs from crawling out of the mattress, which can lead to another infestation if they find a hiding place and lay more eggs. Leave the mattress encasements zipped up for at least a year to ensure that every bed bug has died.

A mattress encasement is a very important aspect of our bed bug elimination program. They prevent bed bugs from escaping, trapping them inside the seal without any access to their food. Without a blood meal available to them, bed bugs will eventually starve to death inside the encasement.

When your mattress and box springs are covered with mattress encasements and your bedding have been washed, you may put on your bedding back on the mattress. An important thing to keep in mind is to never leave your mattress on the floor when you’re dealing with a bed bug infestation. A mattress on the floor makes it much easier for bed bugs to climb on. Clear out all bed bugs from your bed using the program outlined here and continue to use it, keeping your mattress and box springs off the floor.

Pillow Cover

Same as with the mattress and box spring covers a most important part of suffocating a bed bug infestation is replacing your pillow cover. The bed bugs can crawl into many secluded spaces and that is why having a dedicated bed bug preventive pillow cover is an important step you do not want to skip.

Saybyebugs pillow covers are completely allergen proof, water resistant and most of all made specifically to repel bed bugs. We've made them with comfort in mind, so rest assured you'll get a good night's sleep with them.
Things to look out for

Elevating your bed off the floor with a bed frame makes it harder for bed bugs that are hiding in other spaces in your room to reach your mattress. Bed bugs can travel five feet from hiding spaces to your mattress, so elevating your mattress will deter them. Check the space under your bed and clear it out.

Any storage boxes or units will need to be removed, since bed bugs can climb on these to reach your bed. For the same reason, a bed skirt should not be used while you’re in the process of eliminating bed bugs.

If your bed frame is old and has a lot of cracks, you might want to consider replacing it with another bed frame until your infestation has been eliminated.

After you have replaced your mattress cover, box spring cover and pillow cover. Your sleeping area will be safe, however there is one last thing to do!
The final step in removing bed bugs from your home is to vacuum all the possible hiding places in the infected room. This will remove any bed bugs and bed bug eggs that have remained after the spray treatment.

Bed bug vacuum cleaner
The only true and tested vacuum cleaner that we vouch will work with the removal of bed bug infestation is the custom built highly effective vacuum cleaner with a HEPA filter. It will completely clear your room of bed bugs and their eggs.

The Ergo Backpack Vacuum has great sucking power, a HEPA filter, and can fit in tight spaces. The filter is sealed, so no bed bugs will be able to escape as you vacuum.

The Ergo Backpack Vacuum has a comfortable, ergonomic fit with various accessories that will enable you to reach all tight spaces in your home. It comes with a four stage high efficiency filtration, along with a three-quart HEPA filter bag. This gives you a highly powerful, effective vacuum.

The vacuum is also light, weighing only 10 pounds, so you’ll be able to easily take it anywhere in your home to remove all traces of bed bugs. A lightweight yet powerful vacuum is especially ideal for drapes, blinds, registers, and air vents, which are all possible hiding places for bed bugs.

Where to start?
First, start with your mattress and box springs. Use the vacuum to suck up bed bugs, shells, fecal droppings, or eggs along the mattress seams, pillows, and box springs. Vacuum slowly and carefully so to suck up all the traces of the bed bug infestation.

Next, use your vacuum on your bed or bed frame. Pay special attention to your headboard, footboard, the metal frame, and inside cracks and crevices. Check the wood and metal joints of your bed for hidden bed bugs and eggs.
Vacuum the Bed Bugs

Use your vacuum cleaner on the edges of carpet, behind mirrors and picture frames, inside books and magazines, and other small, dark, and hidden spaces. Vacuum wood cracks on furniture and baseboards, underneath rugs, and inside drawers. Use the narrow attachments on your vacuum to completely clear out tight spots.

This will drastically reduce the bed bug population in your room and make it much harder for bed bugs to hide. After you’ve vacuumed everything seal off the end of the hose with the supplied orange cap, move to a safe location, replace the filter bag on the vacuum. Clean the canister as well. This will prevent the re-exposure of bed bugs to other parts of your home. Finally, use the Say Bye Bugs spray on the areas you’ve vacuumed. This will ensure that any remaining bed bugs and eggs are eliminated.

Once you’ve followed the bed bug manual of Say Bye Bugs eradication program, your bed bug infestation will be a thing of the past!

SayByeBugs Vacuum Treatment

Built for bed bug extermination. Four stage high efficiency filtration including a three quart hepa filter bag. It allows for powerful vacuum and blower capacities.

Easy dispersion of weight is making it convenient and comfortable to use. Comes complete with telescopic wand and all accessories required for your cleaning needs.

It is extremely effective. Our vacuum cleaner is made to fit in all the tight spots a bed bug can hide. You can use it normally after you get rid of your bed bugs.

After you have completed the program, your house will be bed bug free. If you do not follow the manual bed bugs might survive in your home and spread again!
Using our products, which includes the exterminator spray, laundry detergent, mattress encasement, and the HEPA filter vacuum you should take care of most of the bed bug infestation. The bed bugs that were exposed to these methods will be eradicated within a few days of the first treatment. However, bed bugs can be resilient. There might be leftover egg from dead or dying bed bugs.

Those eggs will begin hatching during the second week. Use the Exterminator spray to immediately destroy all newly hatched bed bugs before they can mature. Trap them inside the mattress encasements so they never get a single meal before they die. There will not be any more eggs laid, thus ending the infestation.

The only thing left to do is to search out every last bed bug and exterminate them. It’s a good idea to follow the bed bug extermination manual to make sure every remaining adult bed bug is eliminated. At this point you’re almost finished! No more new eggs should have have cropped up in your room. The third week, focus on preventive measures, there is still a possibility you might have missed something, so being diligent is the key. You might have a very small amount of bed bugs still living now; focus on eliminating them all during this week.
The information in this manual is free for anyone to use, we have compiled this report to help everyone that might be affected with bed bugs to better understand them and learn how to stop them. However use it with your own findings and suited to your own unique case. Depending on the severity of your infestation it is extremely important that you are diligent and precise when dealing with bed bugs.

As we mentioned a few times in this guide even a single bed bug egg can determine whether you solve your problem or let it continue. Bed bugs have an amazing ability to reproduce quickly and that is why it is imperative to stop them in their tracks.

We have compiled this manual with regards to our own experience and experience that was presented to us by hundreds of thousands of customers that have trusted us with their bed bug problem.
